Summer's Story

courageous determination and a zest for life

Summer began her relationship with humans as a support animal. She was exposed to support training at a very young age. She did her best to meet the needs of her human until it was time for her to be rehomed.

When news reached us that this special miniature horse was available, we took a leap of love, hooked up the horse trailer and picked her up. Not having experience with a mini meant a learning curve. Summer quickly showed us that although only 37" (94 cm) tall, she is as mighty as any full-size horse and double the mischief! If she isn't bossing the big mares around, she is reaching under fences for grass with entertaining displays of yoga moves or figuring out new ways to open the gates!

Summer has overcome that size doesn't matter when it comes to determination, effort and zest for life.

She is learning about patience and teamwork with her herd mates and humans.
